4) The notes on a similar application received from a printing office in 1924 discusses all aspects of this question in some detail and is put up (vide P & S. File No. 74/23, Sl. 1) for reference.

5) A separate note on the question of getting educational books printed at private presses is ascertained to have been submitted from the Education Branch.

6) The solution of the question raised by the printers will hinge on a decision as to whether centralisation with the consequent enhancement of the Government Press Establishment according to the growing demands, or decentralisation giving a larger share of Government work to private printer should be the policy.

7) The tendency in our State for over two decade has been more to concentrate all Government work i the Government Presses themselves and enhance the equipment of the presses according to needs. Thi was perhaps partially necessitated by the absence at the time, of enterprising private presses good enough to satisfy Government demands. The Mysore Government Presses have from modest establishments employing 340 hands and an expenditure of Rs. 70,000 in 1904-05 developed into pretty decent establishments involving an annual expenditure of - - Rs. 1,39,500 with a staff of 48[illegible] hands and a capi outlay of nearly Rs. 3 lakhs in 1924-25. It is i pur nce of the same tendency that the Government

Branch Press at Mysore was reorganised and improve in 1919 to cope with the bulk of the work from the Mysore Railways and the University. In effect we have a Government Press now which ranks very high for its quality of printing among other Government Printing Establishments and which has not a little contributed to the improvement of the quality of printing throughout the State.

8) In 1919, while the Government Presses were being of the one side well developed, a change in policy was inaugurated by throwing open Government printing work to private presses. The Superintendent, Government Press, was designated, Superintendent, Government Printing and was entrusted with powers of giving, to private presses, all work that cannot be done at the Government Presses. This worked for some years until the strike of the employees in 1920 intervened. During the strike period the bulk of Government work went to private presses and only the bare essentials such as the Gazette etc., were done at the Government Press with the help of the emergent staff that was employed at the time. When the strikers returned, Government was put to the necessity of providing work for the strikers as well as the staff entertained during their absence As a consequence in 1921 the practice of sending Government work to private presses was put a stop to (even works entrusted to private presses was withdrawn in some cases owing to delays) and all Government work was concentrated again in the Government Presses barring a few educational publications which had been given out under contract. Ever since 1921 slight relaxations have been sanctioned, viz., (i) Government Departments run on commercial lines (except Railways) were given the option of getting Key work done at private presses, (ii) The University was permitted the option of entrusting the printing of Oriental Library publications to private presses, (iii) Menu Cards of Government House were allowed to be printed at private presses and (iv) Petty works costing not more than Rs. 20/- were permitted to be done at private presses at the option of the Heads of Departments. In spite of these small relaxations, the bulk of the work of all departments continues to be done now at the Government Presses.

9) The present position can be summed up as follows:-

(a) By the continued absorption of vacancies occurring in the piece-work establishment, the strength of the piece-work staff has again returned almost to normal proportions (256 against 248 in the pre-strike period).

(b) By rigorous control much printing work has been curtailed, but the growth of work on account of the reforms has more than counteracted the curtailments, so that we may be stated to be almost exactly in the same position as we were before 1920. It is open now to revive the practice of giving, to private presses, such Government work as cannot be expeditiously executed at the Government Presses and thus allow private presses to share in the growth of Government work. With judicious care it seems progressively possible now to help private presses als without starving the Government Press Establishmen

10) In the Madras Presidency latterly Governmen work is being more largely entrusted to private -- estt...hments which come up to a set standard and the Government Press Establishments are limiting - themselves to such essentials as Gazette etc. By a slow process of cutting down the Government Esta lishments and a progressive transfer of work to pri vate enterprise, it seems possible to help the - growth of a printing industry in the State, with the standard ~~not~~ needed for Government purposes. The Superintendent, Government Printing, may perhaps b consulted on the several aspects of this large - question.

11) The question of printing ...ational publications seems to stand on a different footing from q.
the general printing needs of Government, as quite other considerations come into view. This questio is best discussed in the Education Branch, which is stated to have already dubd a note on the point

14) Works that cannot be done in either the Central Press or at the Branch Press can only be issued to the Private Presses for execution. But the works that are now being received for printing are not quite enough to keep both the Government Presses fully occupied. In fact, I have to put up with a lot of complaint on the part of our workmen about the inadequacy of work and therefore of insufficiency of wages. But whenever works are received that are too bulky to be done in the Government Presses in the time required by Government, they will be issued to the Private Presses as we did the Electoral Rolls in 1923.

15) The Private Presses do not, I believe, require the ordinary Government work so much as the printing of the books of the Education Department. The matter was gone into in detail when Mr. V. B. Srikantia of Messrs. V. B. Subbiah & Sons made a request to Government in June 1924 on almost the same lines as the present memorial of the Private Printers. The question was thoroughly investigated and it was ultimately decided that the printing of the Educational books may best be left to the Government Press with the proviso that the Superintendent may get the work done in Private Presses with the previous sanction of Government, " if the state of work in the Government Press does not permit of this additional work being taken up" (vide letter No: E.6865/Edn. 88-22-20, dated 28th

Serial No.

May 1925, which is in the file). There is no objection to adopt this course. Whenever I get any work that I cannot possibly manage, I shall certainly give it out to Private Presses with the previous sanction of Government.

16 But, as things are at present, both the Government Presses here and at Mysore are fully equipped to deal with all Government publications and an adequate establishment is also maintained in both the places. If works are given away to Private Presses indiscriminately, I am afraid, I shall have to ~~starve~~ starve the Government Press establishments and face labour troubles which are already in the air in spite of my doing all the work that comes along.

17 As regards the prayer of the memorialists, the monopoly that they complain of is not due so much to the Government Press centralising all Government work as to the centralisation of all Private Work by the well-equipped and well conducted Bangalore Press at Bangalore and the Wesleyan Mission Press at Mysore. These two Presses do the work so neatly and so promptly that every private customer who wants any decent work done entrusts his work to these presses in spite of its being costlier. I know, for example, that the Bangalore and Mysore City Municipalities and Commercial concerns such as, the Soap Factory, the Sandal Oil Factory, the Electric Department and the Bhadravati Iron Works, get their printing done in Private Presses but they rarely go to the Presses who have now memorialised Government, but prefer the Bangalore Press, the Wesleyan Mission Press, Messrs ginbothams and even firms in England. It is significant also that none of these Presses have signed the memorial. In these circumstances, it is due to the Private Presses themselves to try and come into line with other advanced Private Presses and compete with them and attract work to themselves instead of merely petitioning Government to come to their rescue.

18) The Government have their own responsibilities to bear in the matter of printing all Government work as they are maintaining costly establishments for the purpose and have sunk large sums of money on fully equipping both the Presses. The tendency on the part of Governments elsewhere, is o maintain their own presses for printing and publishing their own publications without trying to compete with Private Presses. The Government of India maintains its own publication department and prints all its publications in its own Presses. Even Railway Companies run their own printing establishments.

19) The Educational books are printed for the Education Department of Government and it is up to the Government to see that they are published as promptly and as cheaply as possible and with a uniform get up, in the interests of the school-going boys and their parents. The books being responsibly printed and published under the auspices of a Department of Government, the public will be the gainers in securing reliable literature at a cheap cost while the funds of Government, as representing the tax payer's money, are economically spent on net cost only without profit. If private printers could print and publish, on their own initiative, books which the Education Department can approve and prescribe for use in their schools, then the time will come for the gradual elimination of the books now being printed in the Government Press for the Education Department. Until then, I am afraid, the present system will have to continue.

22) An allied question is under consideratio in the Education Branch in consultation with th Inspector General. It would be well to have the ~~whole~~ position reviewed as a whole

23) The two Government Presses are stated to be fully equipped for doing all Government work and any transfer of work from them to private presses would necessarily mean reductio of establishment of the Government presses and also want of adequate work for their equipment, unless a part of it is disposed of. The point for consideration is this:- Is it necessary that all Government printing work should be executed by Government Presses alone and, when there are private presses which can do the work well or tolerably well, is it not advisable that such work as need not necessarily be done by Government Presses is made over to private presses?

24) So far as the employment of labourers ~~like~~ compositors is concerned, the position is the same whether Government printing work is executed by Government Presses or by private presses. If private enterprise and capital is willing to do any work and to employ the labour qualified for such work, it is desirabl for Government to entrust to private agency -whatever work of that kind they have. I thin we may review all the items of work now done in the two Government Presses and see which o them must continue to be executed by them and and which can be entrusted to private presses and on what conditions. If the work of the Government presses is transferred to private presses, action may be taken to reduce the establishment of the former and also to dispose of any surplus machinery.

25) The proposals which the Inspector General has been requested to furnish may be awaited and on their receipt, the whole question may be considered by a Committee consisting of the Superintendent, Government Printing, the Heads of two or three departments which require much printing work every year and one or two representatives of private presses.

MIN-UL-MULK

Mirza Mohamed Ismail, Esq., B. A., C. I. E., O. B. E.,

Dewan of Mysore,

Bangalore.

RESPECTED SIR,

With your kind permission, we venture to bring the following facts for your gracious consideration with the hope of a revival of State-aid to the private printing concerns which at one time so much contributed towards the development of the art of printing in our State and which, having been latterly totally withdrawn, has acted so disastrously that it may be no surprise if this art, which contributed a great deal towards the material and moral advancement collapses eventually for want of State support.

It will indeed be a most regrettable and retrograde policy, should this profession suffer for want of timely support from our benign Government and it is earnestly hoped that our Government would never allow it to be driven to such an extremity.

A few years ago to meet the growing needs of the public for school books with the rapid progress of primary and middle school education and also with a view to save the art of printing from decay, our benign Government graciously directed the Superintendent, Government Printing, to distribute evenly certain Government publications among the several private printers. This privilege of State-aid to the private concerns for about 5 years gave such an impetus to the art of printing in our State that, with a continuance of the same, it would have kept up the life imparted to it. But the subsequent withdrawal of this support in 1921 and granting same as a monopoly only to only one private printing house has unfortunately resulted catostrophically to the others to an extent that some had to disappear from the field while others are still struggling hard to make both ends meet and may perhaps have eventually to collapse, if State-aid is not assured without prejudice and monopoly, to all the presses very soon.

In lending such a support our benign Government will not only revive the enthusiasm they had once imparted into the private presses but the public also will have no difficulties in timely meeting their children's requirements.

Since Government have recently laid it down as their policy that steps should be taken to advance education yet further, it is expected that they will interest themselves in also seeing that the school-going children are given facilities to get their requirements in time, instead of allowing them to unduly wait for the publication of the books, by the adoption of suitable remedies on lines similar to what it was in vogue before and as detailed below.

May we therefore feel encouraged to submit the following proposals for the benign consideration and favourable orders of Government:—

(1) The Education Department to chalk out a programme of their requirements for a decade in the first instance.

(2) All the books to be printed should be distributed among the several private presses in the State as in the past.

(3) The press should be called upon to enter into an agreement with the Government for a period of 5 years in the first instance.

(4) Throwing open our Railway Works to the private presses.

(5) The Superintendent, Government Printing, to be given the discretion to

We are sure that, if the Government graciously sanction the above proposals, not only the serious question of unemployment in the State will be solved inasmuch as the private presses will then be in a position to employ more educated men but also the liveliness and enthusiasm introduced by Government patronage before into this precious art will be restored to contribute their quota towards the material progress of the State.

For which act of kindness we shall ever pray for your long life and prosperity.

Sir,

I am forwarding herewith a copy of the representation received from Messrs. V. B. Sooboiah & Sons., Printers, Avenue Road, Bangalore City, requesting this Chamber to recommend the cause of Private Printing Presses for favourable consideration of Government in the matter of distributing Government Printing Works among the Private Presses in the State with a view of encouraging these private industries, which in their turn would assure permanent work to their employees while solving the problem of unemployment to some extent. My Committee are of opinion that the Government be requested to take necessary steps in making an equitable distribution of work among the Private Printing Presses who are in a position to turn out satisfactory work as and when possible.

The action taken in the matter may kindly be intimated.

I have the honour to be,

MEMORANDUM.

At one time State aid contributed a great deal towards the development of the art of Printing in our Province. But latterly it has been totally withdrawn and this has acted very disastrously and it may be a matter of no surprise if this art which is contributing a great deal towards the material and moral advancement of the people either collapses or takes a very unhealthy turn for want of State encouragement.

2. A few years ago to meet the needs of the growing public demand for school books and also with a view to encourage the art of printing, our benign Government graciously directed the Superintendent, Government Printing, to distribute evenly certain Government Publications among the leading private printers. This act of high statesmanship gave a good impetus to the art of printing by private enterprise and if the same policy had been continued, extraordinary developments would have been made by private printing agencies. But unfortunately, the subsequent reversal in 1921 of the above policy and confining state support to only one private press thus introducing the obnoxious principle of capitalist monopoly has unfortunately affected the very existence of several of the Private Printing Presses. So deplorable have been the results, that some private printing presses with small capital have already disappeared, while others are still hopelessly struggling very hard to make both ends meet.

3. When the Mysore Economic Conference was first started, the then Secretary of the Conference was good enough to distribute a great deal of useful literature to some of the private Presses regularly. For a number of years this impartial distribution of State patronage made our existence economically sound.

4. If the following proposals, with such suitable modifications as may suggest to Government are adopted it will help our Industry appreciably.

(1) The Education Department to chalk out a programme of their requirements for a decade or for five years in the first instance.

(2) All the books to be printed should be distributed among the several private presses in the State as in the past.

(3) The press should be called upon to [illegible] into an agreement with the Government for a period of 5 years in the first instance.

(4) Throwing open Railway works to the private presses.

5. The mass of illiteracy in the State is so thick that the private presses have a vast field of very useful work both in towns and large villages. These private presses no doubt depend primarily for their existence on their own efforts and the patronage of the public, but it is our misfortune that our reading public is only a very small fraction of the total population. Therefore the economic depression and the stringency of the money market which is a standing menace to all private enterprise compel us to request the State to come to our aid.

6. All that we request of Government is that their patronage should under no circumstances be confined to one press, however, influential and wealthy the parties that have sunk their capital therein may be., but that the State should have some regard for middle class enterprising citizens who invest their all in such concerns and thus make an honest endeavour to sustain themselves and to discharge a public duty.

7. In addition to the above the Government press should be limited to those of a confidential nature or of a very [illegible] urgent character. All other works of the various Departments and of the Government Secretariate should be released for the benefit of the private printing presses, ensuring at the same time good and timely work and moderate rates from the various private presses.

8. The Government of His Highness the Maharaja are not unaware of the dire condition of the educated middle classes owing to serious unemployment. Here is a field in which as compositors, proof readers and as Managers an annually increasing number of educated of literate young men can be profitably employed. Therefore we have right, a moral right, to request the Government to come to our help so that we may in our turn contribute our humble mite to promote the contentment and happiness of His Highness's subjects.

9. If His Highness's Governmet graciously sanctions the above proposals or such modified ones as they may think of, the private presses will be enabled to do a great deal of useful work and every Taluk and every large village centre will carry aloft and for ever the torch of public enlightenment and that the cause of the formation of a sound and healthy public spirit and public opinion will be furthered to a very noteworthy extent. Communal factions, insanitary village conditions, agricultural defects, the absence of habits of thrift and many such evils can only be successfully grappled by systematically spreading wholesome literature and this can only be effected by private presses flourishing in good numbers.
